

How to create and use phrases and their Autotxt abbreviations with PhraseExpress

Open PhraseExpress

PhraseExpress should open automatically when your computer is powered on. Its icon should appear in the lower right part of your Windows desktop.

If PhraseExpress is not running, click Start | All Programs | PhraseExpress (or type PhraseExpress in the Search box)

If PhraseExpress Is Not Running

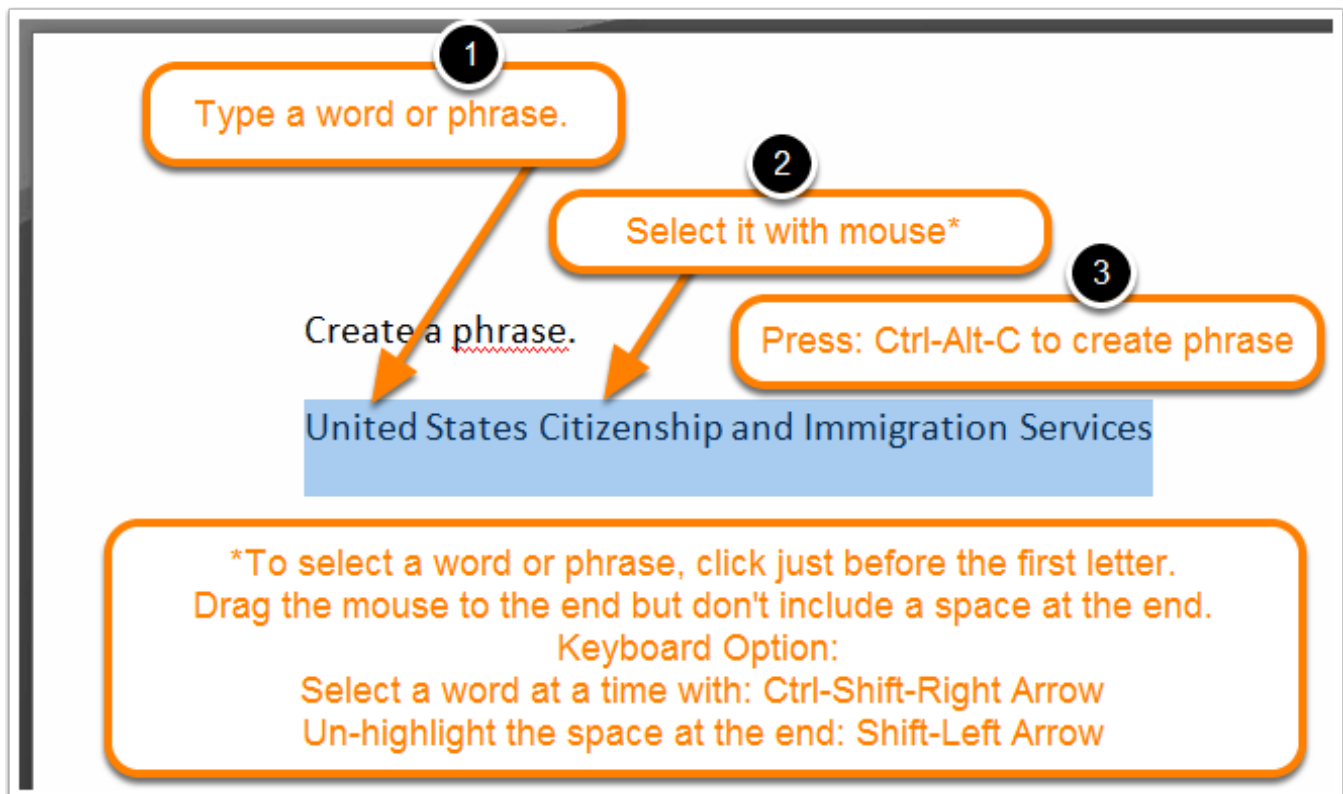

If PhraseExpress is not running, open it.

How to Create a New Phrase with Ctrl-Alt-C

Creating a new phrase is easy.

1. Type a word or phrase (or if it is already on your screen, go to #2).
2. Select one or more words on your screen (in Time Matters, Word, an email, anywhere).
3. Press: Ctrl-Alt-C (This shortcut brings up the New Phrase window.)
Or you can click the PhraseExpress icon (!) in your Taskbar and click New Phrase.

Enter an Autotxt for the Phrase

Enter an Autotxt (an abbreviation) ending with the letter j

For example: uscisj

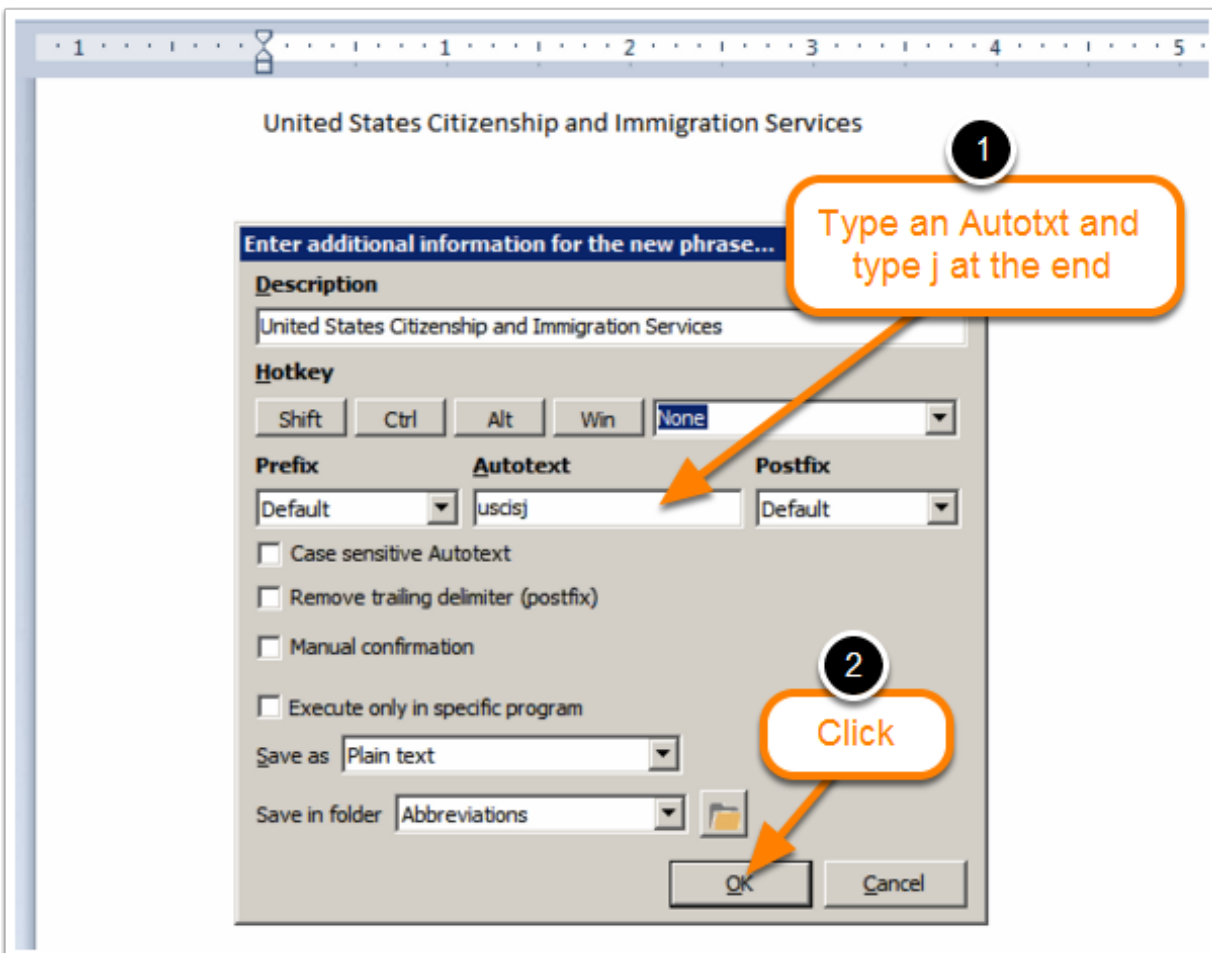

Press OK.

For a sentence or multi-word phrase: First letter of 3 or 4 words plus j

Example: uvvj -- Updated U visa chart to monitor client's case.

For names of staff: Your Slack nickname plus j

Example: vicj -- Victor Velsco

Use Your New Phrase

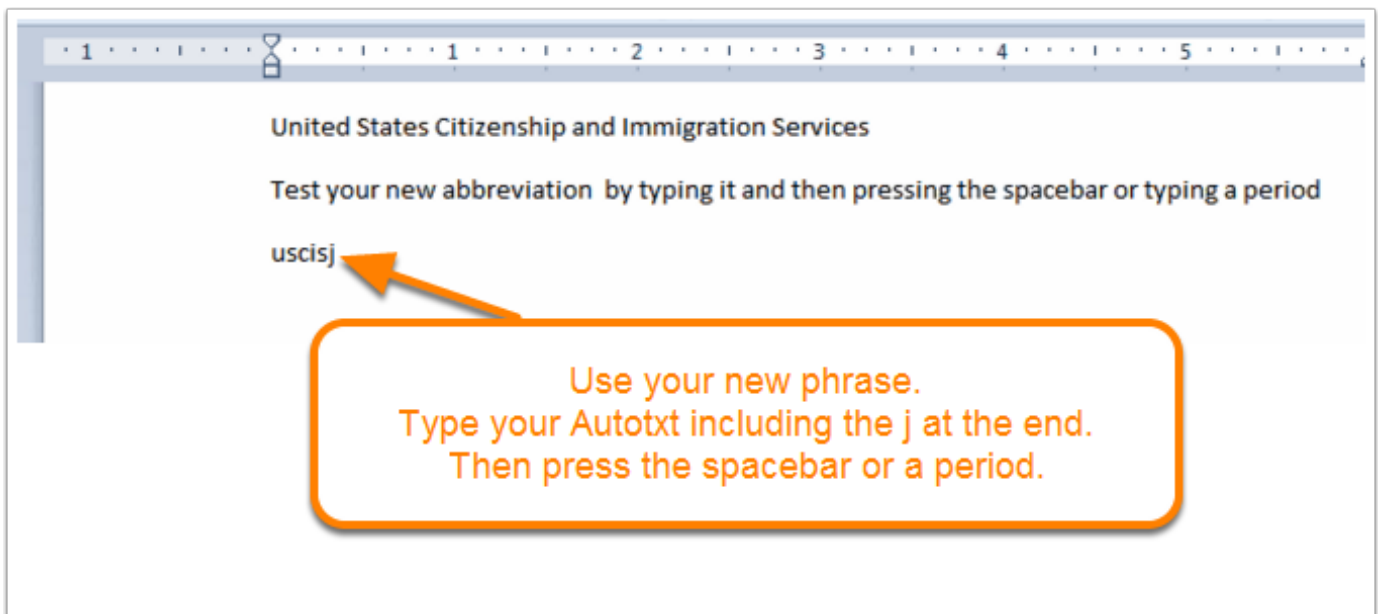

Use your new phrase by typing its abbreviation (including the j at the end).

After the abbreviation, press the spacebar or any punctuation mark.

For example: uscisj

Your phrase will appear in place of the abbreviation.

Press Ctrl-Z if you want to Undo the entry of a phrase.

Naming Conventions for Autotxt

For a sentence or multi-word phrase: First letter of 3 or 4 words plus j

Example: uuvj -- Updated U visa chart to monitor client's case.

For names of staff: Your Slack nickname plus j

Example: vicj -- Victor Velsco

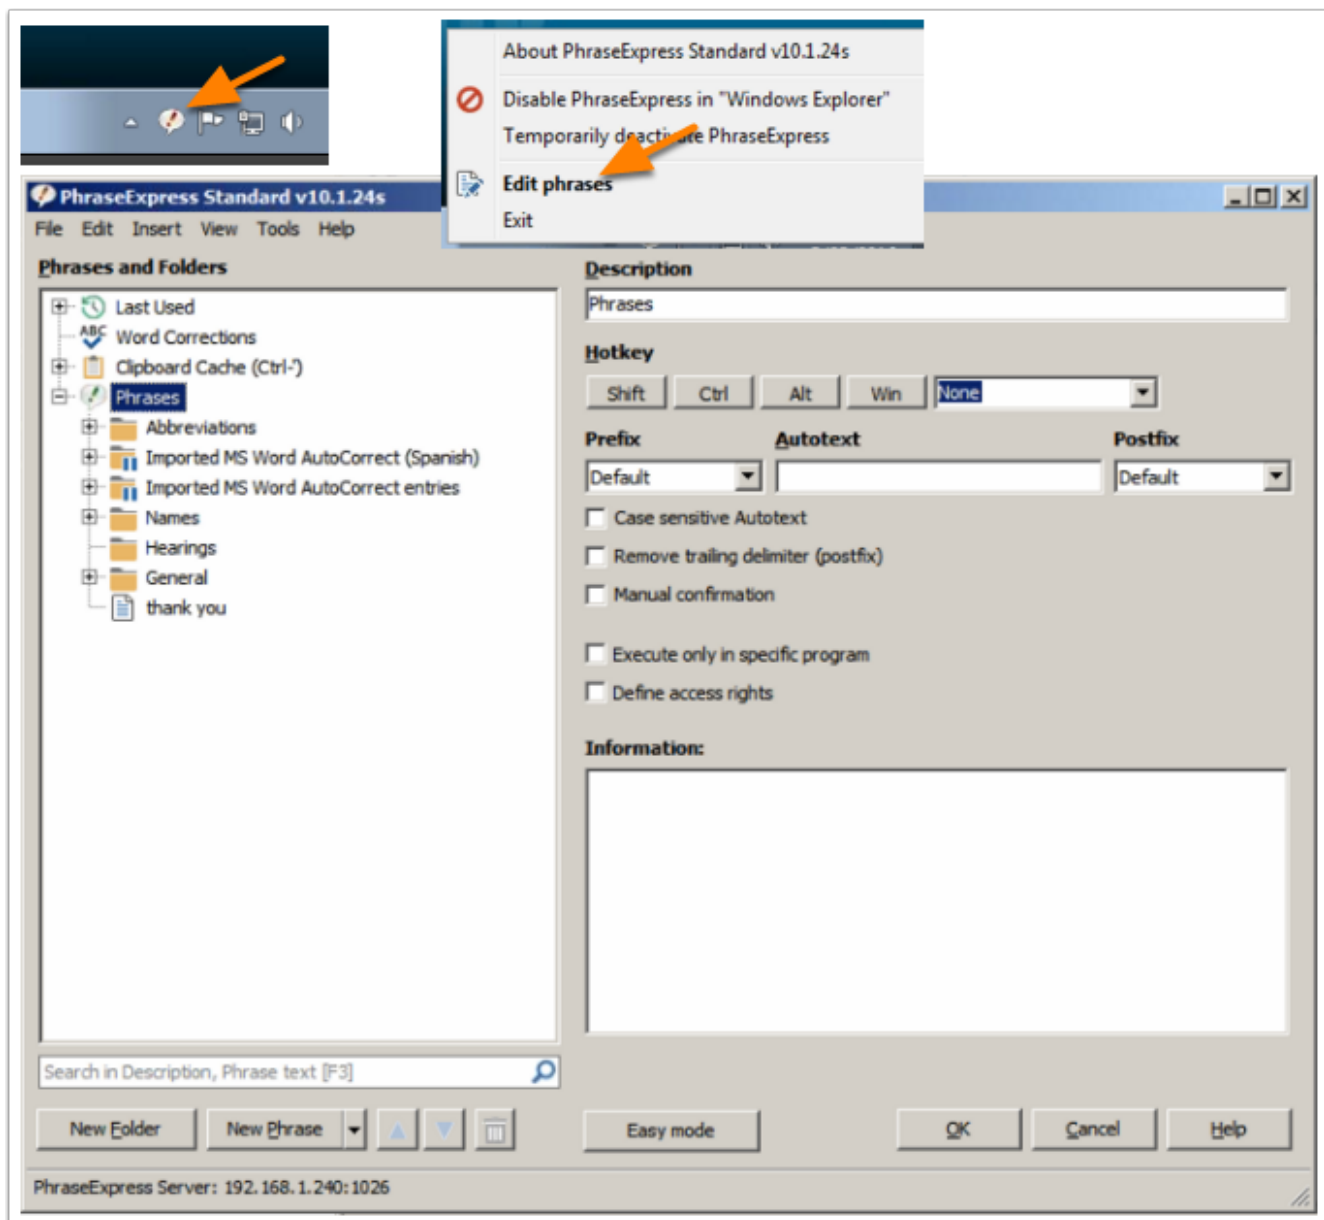

Edit a Phrase

To edit a phrase, open the PhraseExpress main window:

1. Right-click on the PhraseExpress icon (lower right corner of desktop)
2. Click Edit phrases
3. Find your Phrase in the list or in a folder. Expand folders by clicking [+]

You may drag and drop a Phrase from the list into a folder.

Warning: Only one person at a time can work in the PhraseExpress Main Window. Others will be prevented from making changes while you have the window open. So close it as soon as you are done.

Main Window Locked

If someone else has the PhraseExpress Main Window open, it is locked. You can open it but cannot make any changes.

All the folder have a red circle icon if the PhraseExpress Main Window is locked by another user. The login name of the other user appears at the bottom of your locked Main Window.
